Col. Dyke runway extension will go to Town Meeting vote

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel voters will have the opportunity later this month to decide if they want the town to accept a $2.2 million federal grant for lengthening the runway at the Col. Dyke Airport.

The project, which would extend the current 3150-foot runway to 4,000 feet, appears to have the support of the town Board of Selectmen and the Bethel Airport Authority.

The two boards met jointly Monday to review the proposal and decide how best to present it to the town.

No objections were raised to the project at Monday's meeting, but the members present clearly expected to hear arguments against the proposal from some of their fellow citizens.

Not only is there a well-entrenched opposition to the airport on the part of some Bethel residents, they noted, but the timing of the grant and other recent circumstances have aroused concern -- and generated rumors -- regarding the airport.

For example, they pointed to the perception the runway is being lengthened primarily to benefit the American Skiing Company, to fears of eminent-domain land takings, and to concerns regarding a recent incident ("occurrence" in the language of the Federal Aviation Administration -- see sidebar) that was reported to the FAA but not to the BAA.

Informational campaign planned

BAA member Eric Wight argued that accurate information was the best weapon for combating potential opposition to the runway lengthening -- and for getting people to make the effort to get out and vote for it.

If members of the two boards were to make their own thoughts on the matter public, especially on why they see the expansion as necessary, he said, then the eventual vote, would "draw in a more intellectually inspired group than the people who are apt to show up who are just against anything the airport is trying to do."

More public education about the airport would also help control the rumors circulating about it, said BAA member John Head.

If people knew more of the facts

Plane bounces, rumors fly

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Participants in Monday's meeting did express concerns of their own regarding one aspect of current operations at Col. Dyke Airport -- the lack of information they have been receiving from the users of the airport and the fixed-base operator (FBO) who handles its daily activities.

At issue was a June 2 incident in which an ASC aircraft overshot the north end of the runway and hit a rut in the gravel extension there.

BAA member Eric Wight told the two boards Monday that he was familiar with the details of the occurrence and "there was no damage to the plane whatsoever. It got blown out of proportion."

According to Wight, the pilot voluntarily reported the occurrence to the FAA. (FAA regulations do not generally require the agency be notified unless there is personal injury or damage that exceeds $35,000.)

A spokesperson for ASC acknowledged Tuesday that the plane had gone beyond the runway and when it hit the rut "it bounced."

He said that following the incident the plane was thoroughly examined and minor damage was found in an internal bracket -- but it was impossible to determine if the damage was the result of hitting the rut or of normal wear and tear. (The aircraft was about to go in for routine

Skiway water slide, Adventure Center open this weekend

By ALISON ALOISIO

It's not the longest, steepest, widest water slide in the East.

But Sunday River Ski Resort hopes its new White Cap aqua-toy -- along with a climbing wall and in-line skate and BMX parks -- will make the resort one of the busiest ski mountains in the East in the summertime.

The Mountain Adventure Center, located at the resort's White Cap Lodge, is scheduled to open tomorrow (Friday). The target clientele: on-mountain guests, day-trippers and locals.

The centerpiece of the entertainment site is Tempest Lagoon, which features two 400-foot-long water slides. One is a traditional slide, on which sliders lie on their backs for a ride into the pool at the bottom. Its twists and turns include a 360-degree spin.

The other, wider slide allows two people to ride a tube down to the pool. After either run, sliders climb back to the top under their own power.

The two slides are of average length for water slides, according to resort spokesman Ryan Triffitt.

Another attraction is the skateboard and in-line skate park. It includes quarterpipes, ramps and rails for aspiring X-gamers to strut their stuff.

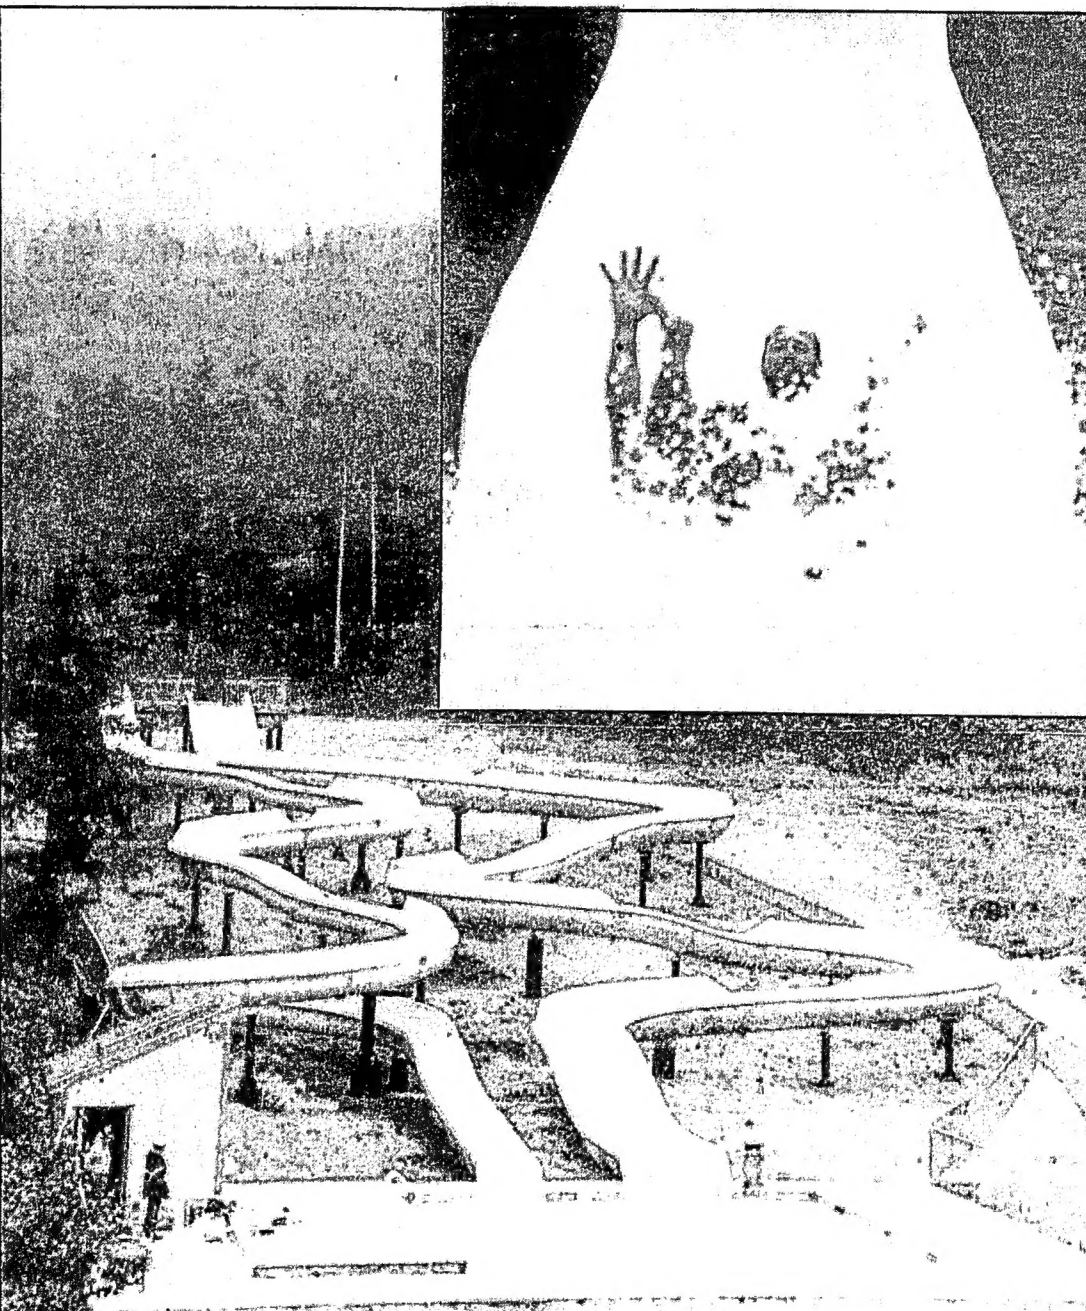

Adjacent to the skate park is a BMX park, featuring gravel jumps, ramps and rolls. BMX biking, said Triffitt, "is an obvious and natural cross-over from mountain-biking," which has been offered at the resort for a number of years.

Mountain bikers, he said, can give the BMX course a try on their bikes, if they like. If they want to ride the real McCoy, BMX rentals are available at White Cap. So are in-line skates.

Triffitt said the skating and BMX park "is a good place to try it out as a beginner. But it has enough of a challenge if you're experienced, too."

Sunday River also plans to host competitions in both BMX and skating in the future.

A NEW TWIST FOR SUMMER--Sunday River Ski Resort's new Adventure Center opens Friday, July 3, and features a double water slide located near White Cap Lodge. Other attractions will include a BMX bike park, an in-line skating and skateboard park and a climbing wall. 4,000-acre parcel near Concord Pond donated to Nature Conservancy

State conservation group expects to maintain land's traditional uses

By ALISON ALOISIO

It's the largest single gift of land the Maine chapter of the Nature Conservancy has received in its 40-year history. And the vast majority of it is in Woodstock and Milton.

The gift of 4,400 contiguous acres, evenly split between the two towns, was announced last week.

The tract is located to the northwest and southwest of Concord Pond, according to Conservancy spokesman Bruce Kidman. Only a very small part of the parcel actually touches the pond, he said.

An anonymous New Hampshire family donated the land. The same family also donated 2,200 acres to that state's NC chapter.

The Woodstock/Milton property was "owned as a forest resource, with the family practicing forestry," said Kidman.

The donors, he said, have stipulated that they would like the land to remain as open space.

Kidman said that while the Conservancy does not yet have specific plans for the property, he expects it will continue to provide natural habitats.

His organization, he said, will work with the local communities to determine "how to make sure its traditional uses continue."

The area has been used for hunting and fishing, he said.

The NC will inventory flora and fauna on the land before making plans for its future, he said.

For tax purposes, the land donation will not be recorded until January.

Much smaller tracts of land -- all under 400 acres -- have also been donated in Buckfield, Fryburg, Denmark, Hebron, Lovell and Hartford.

The two-state donation was negotiated by the New Hampshire chapter of the Conservancy.

Greenwood hikes building fees, closes road to plowing

By ALISON ALOISIO

Greenwood will make at least double the money on some of its building permit fees, following a special Town Meeting vote Tuesday.

A dozen voters approved hikes that will increase some current fees, and also added specific fees for other building projects that are currently charged at a flat rate of $10.

Marie Curtis, chairman of the Planning Board, said the increases were proposed because the current rates are nine years old. "We felt they should be updated. Everything else is going up," she said.

The cost of a permit for a single-family dwelling will increase from 5 cents per square foot to 10, with additional stories computed by half. The minimum fee will go from $50 to $60.

The cost for commercial and industrial buildings, meanwhile, will jump from 8 cents a square foot to 16. Outbuildings, such as garages, barns, sheds and porches will more than double, going from 2 cents to 5.

The minimum fee for all projects was increased to $15.

Other specific projects that will now be targeted by fees are in-ground swimming pools ($15), satellite dishes ($15) and utility poles ($10 for the first pole, $5 for each additional one).

Regarding utility pole fees, Curtis said the town had lost "a bundle of money" when Central Maine Power applied this spring to run a second power line along a current 6-mile corridor in Greenwood.

The fee will also apply to poles put up by individuals on residential property.

Patch Mt. Road maintenance

The meeting-goers also voted to discontinue winter maintenance on two sections of the Patch Mountain Road: one and three-quarters miles beyond the three-quarter mile paved piece on the north end, and the first three-quarter mile of the south end, beginning at the Norway town line.

Garden State kids to study and portray life as it is lived in the Androscoggin River Valley

By ALISON ALOISIO

A group of New Jersey high school students will soon find out if real life in Bethel could be the stuff of high drama.

A drama production known as the "Voices of the Androscoggin River Valley" will feature portrayals of local residents by the students, who are members of their school drama group.

The project is directed by English and drama teacher Don Gilpin of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. It is an extension of a similar project the drama group produced within their own school.

That endeavor, said Gilpin, was an attempt "to put into production some voices that generally weren't heard" at the school.

His students first interviewed a cross-section of the school community, ranging from a wide variety of students to school maintenance workers.

Topics discussed ranged from history to current events, as viewed by each individual.

The interviews were audio-taped, and student actors then staged monologue interpretations of each person. The goal, said Gilpin, was to represent the people "as faithfully and empathetically as possible," and show the diversity of the school community.

Gilpin decided to take on a similar rural project as the basis for his Ph.D. dissertation in educational theater, which he is pursuing through New York University.

How did Bethel enter into the picture? Through Sally Milliken, who has worked in the area on environmental and community projects with the Quebec-Labrador Foundation/Atlantic Center for the Environment. Gilpin, too, has been associated with that organization. "Sally thought Bethel would be receptive to the project," said Gilpin.

He came to Bethel last week and talked with Stan Howe of the Bethel Historical Society. The society may provide help in identifying potential subjects to interview.

"We're hoping to get some historical themes," said Gilpin. "But topics will emerge according to the production group." Possibilities include themes such as "changes in Bethel in my lifetime," "favorite memories," and "Bethel in 2020." Between 40 to 50 participants will be sought from all age groups.

The production group, said Gilpin, "will be a fusion of New Jersey

NO GOOD DEED BY THE GOVERNMENT GOES UNADVERTISED--A sign went up this week across the street from the Bethel Treatment Plant, advertising the improvement project that is funded in part by federal money.

Bethel Town Office

New Sign in Town. Citizens may notice a new sign in town across from the entrance to the wastewater treatment plant. It is one that is required by the Department of Commerce, Economic Development Administration, or EDA, which is one of a multiple of grant funding sources for the wastewater treatment plant upgrade, as well as the Bethel Station Development Project. It is a temporary construction sign approved by the Sign Committee and the Planning Board, which will stand until the completion of the sewage plant upgrade, projected for June 1999. The EDA will have provided $1.35 million in grant money to the Town of Bethel for these two projects by that time.

Please note that this sign text, "Jobs for your community," does not mean that the EDA grant strictly requires the creation of jobs, as does the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program provided by the State of Maine, Department of Commerce and Economic Development. Instead it is meant to create short-term construction jobs to improve a community's infrastructure and foster an economic climate where long-term jobs will follow.

The Town of Bethel is currently negotiating the final close-out terms of the CDBG $400,000 grant, which ran into trouble this spring when the developer of the stalled Bethel Station project failed to create 200 jobs as originally intended in that competitive grant award. Rural Development, formerly the USDA Farm Home Administration, is the third grant source providing the treatment plant upgrade a $610,000 grant award. Combined Bethel will have received $2.36 million in grant monies from government sources.

Ask a Lawyer:

Question: My property deed reads, "excepting and reserving all rights-of-way over the old road that have been previously deeded to other lot owners." My questions are these: Do they have a right to widen the road? Do they have a right to hang signs? Can they cut trees without asking me, the owner of the land? If they do cut trees, what can I do about it?

Answer: Complete answers to your questions would require examination and interpretation of the language of prior deeds that created those rights of way referred to in your deed. Your deed does not create any rights in third parties; those rights were created by prior deeds. Those interests were already there when your land was deeded to you, and you took the land subject to those rights, whatever they are. However, the following general comments can be made.

Under the law, someone else can have rights to use a portion of your land for certain purposes. This is called an easement or right of way. The property benefited by the easement is called the dominant estate, and your land is called the servient estate. The concept is that your land is used to serve the land of another.

Generally, the rights granted or reserved in an easement are determined by the language that created the easement, as evidence of the intention of the original parties. If the language used is ambiguous, a court would look beyond that language to other evidence concerning the circumstances and statements at the time the easements were created -- again to determine what the parties intended at that time. The facts might support a finding that the original easement was wider than the original use, thereby permitting some enlargement within the original easement.

Similarly, the answer to the question of tree cutting depends on the location of the trees in relation to the actual easement, as well as the extent of tree overhang. In general, the holder of the dominant estate does have the right to perform reasonable maintenance on the easement.

The question of whether a sign would be permitted as part of the easement would also necessarily depend on the particular facts, but a sign, particularly if signs have been there from the beginning, does not appear to be unreasonable. Under some circumstances, however, even used within the scope of the easement can be held to be unreasonable or an overburdening of the easement.

Since there is no uniform language to create an easement, each case must be looked at on its own.

about the airport, he said, it would help "put the brakes on some of this chatter that's out there now ... big time."

Members also worried the runway expansion would be perceived as largely serving the interest of the American Skiing Company, whose chairman and CEO, Les Otten, has been an outspoken advocate of upgrading the airport expansion.

BAA Chairman Arlan Jodrey also argued that the location of an upcoming informational meeting on the expansion would contribute to that view.

The consulting engineering firm hired by the BAA to oversee the development and implementation of the Airport Master Plan, Dufresne-Henry, is scheduled to give the presentation at the monthly "Eggs and Issues" breakfast sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

The location for the breakfasts changes monthly, but by chance this month's affair was scheduled to be held at Sunday River Ski Resort's Grand Jordan Hotel.

"I think (the location) would put a bad light on it," Jodrey said. "I think that's not the place to do it. ... We ought to find an alternate site."

Dresser and fellow selectman Don Bennett agreed.

The manner in which the boards manage the whole grant matter in the coming weeks would have a significant effect on the town's willingness to accept the project Bennett said, especially given the speed with which recent events have been unfolding.

"It seems to me things have happened awfully quickly," he said. "All of a sudden it's 'Wow, the airport's getting money and it's $2.2 million.' If we aren't careful it's going to seem to a lot of those people who don't know a lot about it ... that all of sudden (we) are trying to rush this all through."

BAA member John Head agreed: "You're awfully right -- it happened fast," he said.

"And to the public it happened even faster," said selectman Bob Chadbourne.

Town Manager Phil Tarr agreed to see if the venue for next week's breakfast could be changed. (Late note: the meeting is now scheduled for the Bethel Inn, Wednesday, July 8, from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. As is always the case with such meetings, the public is welcome to attend and participate.)

It was also agreed, at Wight's suggestion, to set up a donuts-and-coffee event at the airport, at which the public would be encouraged to ask questions about the facility and the plan for upgrading it.

Head suggested the event be held, "on a weekend, when there's 10, 12, 15 aircraft out there. That should help dispel the rumor that the only aircraft that use it are American Skiing."

Public hearing

The boards also agreed to hold a June 14 public hearing on the expansion proposal, at which time the details of the plan and its financial structure would be explained. (ASC has already agreed to pay the $150,000 "local match" required of the town for the project.)

A special Town Meeting vote on the grant is tentatively scheduled for June 29.

'It bounced'

100-hour maintenance, he said, and during the course of that maintenance the bracket, which cost less than $300, was replaced.)

The spokesperson confirmed that the situation had been reported, by telephone, to the FAA; and the pilot, he said, was advised by the agency that there was no need for a formal occurrence report.

But while the FAA had been contacted, neither the town nor the BAA were notified, which bothered members of both boards -- again, in part because of the rumor factor.

"When it's kept as quiet as that it begins to smell. The perception is "something happened over there," said Selectman Bob Chadbourne. "If something extremely minor happened I would think it would be in the best interest for many at the airport to say 'Something really minor happened, here's what it was, and that's it.' And I don't know whose job that is."

Town Manager Phil Tarr (who serves as airport manager) said he looked into the matter and found there was no legal responsibility for reporting the matter to the town, "but certainly there's practical reason for it to be reported to me or to the authority or to the selectmen, so that we're aware of it."

That would be especially important, he said, if the situation were maintenance-related and the town was potentially liable.

Tarr said he had spoken with ASC pilot Jim Wing, who agreed to inform him of any future incidents, no matter how minor.

It was generally agreed that more communication would be a good idea, but Wight noted there were limits to the truth's power to dispel rumors: "We all know that even if everyone knew what happened, they wouldn't believe it anyway," he said.

Greenwood

The sections had not been plowed in practice for years, and selectmen had sought to make it official with a Town Meeting vote. They had worried that if a family with children were to move into a house on the longer section and live there year-round, Greenwood might have to upgrade and plow the road -- at considerable cost -- for a school bus to get through.

A North Norway resident, Richard Briggs, told those at Tuesday's meeting that he had been interested in purchasing property on the longer section of road, but would not if winter maintenance were discontinued. "If this does go through, we won't be interested," he said. But, he added, "I understand the town's position."

Voters also approved revisions to Greenwood's subdivision and shoreline zoning ordinances, approved an updated shoreline zoning map and floodplain management ordinance, and approved the updating of floodplain maps.

All the changes approved Tuesday are effective immediately.

Adventure Center

Also offered at the Adventure Center is a 24-foot, portable climbing wall, again suitable for both beginners and those with experience.

In addition to the brand-new attractions, Sunday River has expanded its mountain bike trail network, adding trails geared toward beginner and intermediate bikers. A total of 60 miles of trails will be accessible by two ski lifts.

Park users may pay by the day, or obtain a season pass. A full season will run from Memorial Day to Columbus Day.

Next year -- if this season's park offerings prove successful -- the resort may expand them.

Right now, he said, "it's not a natural thought to go to a ski area in the summer."

Sunday River hopes the Adventure Center will change that.

STAYING AFLOAT--Most of the potato plants on the Ladd Farm in Bethel have survived the recent rains, and tractors have been able to work the fields (above). Many hay farmers have not been as fortunate. The wet conditions have delayed the harvest -- and the quality of the hay is deteriorating as it ages. In some cases, the grass has rotted. It is estimated that up to one-third of the crops in southern and western Maine have been destroyed. The federal government has been asked to declare 11 counties disaster areas.

Briefly

Mail about to move

BETHEL--The Bethel Post Office is expected to move to its temporary site in the former Rick's Deli at the Casablanca this month, making way for renovations to the Main Street office. Real estate specialist Terry Brooks of the U.S. Postal Service said he expects the office to relocate to the Casablanca for five months, beginning the end of July. He sees no disruption of service. Post office boxes will also be temporarily relocated, so boxholder numbers will not change.

Chain saw injures worker

GILEAD--A worker with the PNGTS pipeline project was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital for stitches Tuesday when a chain saw kicked back on him. Mark Fish, a Pennsylvania resident employed by subcontractor Right of Way Clearing, was treated for a leg injury and released. The accident occurred near the Androscoggin River, off the North Road. Bethel Rescue responded to the call.

Former Rebel coaches a state champ

GORHAM (Maine)--Telstar High School graduate Rocky Myers was a member of a state championship Rebel baseball team in 1979. In 1998, he is again part of a state championship squad -- this time as the head coach of Class B Gorham (Maine) High School. Myers graduated from Telstar in 1982, after playing four years as a Rebel infielder under coach Peter Brown. When Myers was a freshman, the team won the Class C state championship. After graduating, Myers went on to Plymouth State College, where he earned a degree in physical education and health. For the past eight years, he has been Gorham's head coach. His team has been in the playoffs every year, advancing to the semifinals four of those years before being eliminated. But his fortunes changed on June 20, when his team defeated Camden-Rockport 3-2 in 11 innings to win Gorham's first-ever state crown. The game, said Myers, "had everything in it," ranging from excellent defense by Gorham through five innings to a shaky sixth, when they committed three errors. Gorham finally scored the game winning run in the top of the 11th. In the bottom of that inning, Camden-Rockport had a runner thrown out at the plate before relief pitcher Paul Nicely struck out the final two batters to seal the win. The fact that the championship was Gorham's first, said Myers, made the victory particularly satisfying for him. Myers is the son of Mary Myers of Bethel and the late David Myers.

Marathoners were successful

BETHEL--Midnight Sun Marathoners Suzanne Newsom, Brie Weisman and Jon Starr have returned home after successfully completing the marathon held June 20 in Anchorage, Alaska. The three raised at least $10,500 for the event, which benefits the Leukemia Society. Newsom said the day of the marathon was drizzly, providing ideal conditions for such a run. "It rained a lot while we were there," she said -- making the runners feel right at home, given Maine's weather pattern last month.

Lakes Assoc. annual meeting

WOODSTOCK--The annual meeting of the Community Lakes Association will take place July 11 at the Maine Conservation School in Bryant Pond. Among items for discussion will be possible regulation of the use of watercraft on area lakes. The meeting begins at 9 a.m.

Breakfasts will nourish track fund

BETHEL--The Telstar Track Boosters has scheduled a series of three breakfasts at the American Legion Hall on Vernon Street in Bethel, to benefit the Telstar track project. The first breakfast will be held this Saturday, July 4, from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. Subsequent breakfasts will take place July 18 and Aug. 22, at the same times. The cost is adults $5, senior citizens $4 and children $2.50.

Sunday River's 1998 improvements

NEWRY--Sunday River Ski Resort is making an investment of more than $5 million this season in resort improvements. Among the planned projects: A new high-speed detachable quad lift at Barker Mountain; 100 new snowguns; five new snowcats; an upgrade to the snowboarding halfpipe and a new grooming machine to maintain it; a new skier instruction center; and expansions to South Ridge Lodge.

Boy dies from bike crash injuries

DIXFIELD--An 11-year-old boy who rode his bike into a moving car last week has died at Maine Medical Center. Michael Richard died Monday, after being in critical condition since the June 24 accident. He had suffered a fractured skull. The boy and a friend were riding bicycles down Holt Hill Road at about 8 p.m. on the 24th when Richard failed to stop at an intersection and hit the side of a car. He was not wearing a helmet.

Permanent VA clinic planned

RUMFORD--The Veterans Administration will open a permanent, community-based outpatient clinic in Rumford this year, in response to a request from the Maine Congressional Delegation. The facility will be located at the Rumford Community Clinic. The VA's mobile clinic that currently visits Rumford every two weeks will be stationed there weekly on Mondays and Tuesdays until the new clinic opens.

N.H. loons flooded out

LACONIA, N.H.--High water -- as much as five feet above normal in some areas -- in New Hampshire rivers and lakes is flooding the nesting sites of loons. As many as one quarter of the loon nests in the state have been destroyed by flooding, according to Harry Vogel, executive director of the Loon Preservation Committee. Virtually all the destroyed nests contained unhatched eggs, he said. The birds can usually deal with a six-inch water level rise by building up their nests. But this year the water moved too fast for the loons to cope, forcing them to abandon their nests. Vogel's group plans to salvage some benefit from the situation, however. They will collect the unhatched eggs and study them for levels of lead and mercury contamination.

Heritage Park tours starting

BERLIN, N.H.--The Northern Forest Heritage Park will again offer Heritage/Mill Tours this summer. They will take place on consecutive Thursdays beginning July 9, at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., in July and August. The two-hour guided tours leave from the Brown Company House Museum at 961 Main Street. They highlight key historic, cultural, natural, and architectural features of the city and the Androscoggin River Valley, and include a visit to the Crown Vantage pulp and paper mills. The cost is $5 per person. Reservations are encouraged (603) 752-7202.

Gas price down, travelers up for 4th

PORTLAND--Fourth of July holiday travelers will pay 14 cents a gallon less for gasoline than they did one year ago, according to the American Automobile Association. The average national price of self-serve regular unleaded gas is $1.108 per gallon. It is the lowest pre-July 4 price since 1990, when self-serve unleaded was $1.086. The New England regional price is $1.113 per gallon. An estimated 36.9 million Americans are expected to travel 100 miles or more from home over the holiday. That would be the largest number of travelers since 1987, when 37 million traveled. Last year, the figure was 35.7 million.

Fireworks enforcers will be out

AUGUSTA--Investigators from the state Fire Marshal's office will be working at public gatherings on the July 4th weekend looking for individual fireworks violations. Fire marshal John Dean said the only fireworks that are legal in Maine, without a license, are sparklers and caps, and he recommends strict supervision of their use. Most parents, he said, do not realize the temperature of a sparkler can reach 1,800 degrees and can easily ignite clothing and cause severe burns.

From the Bethel Police log:

IDs don't pass as a license

At 11:35 p.m. on June 24 a subject was stopped for speeding 61 miles per hour in a 45 m.p.h. zone on Route 2. He handed over a South Dakota identification card instead of a license. License checks in several states showed he did not have one. Christopher B. Goings, 24, of Rapid City, South Dakota, was arrested. He then said he once held a license in Oregon. A check showed it was suspended. Goings was taken to the Oxford County Jail, where he was held in lieu of bail on charges of speeding and operating without a license.

Wednesday, June 24

At 9 p.m. a subject was stopped on Route 2 for speeding (87 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone). Police noticed signs of intoxication. The subject was given several field sobriety tests. George K. Cooper, 54, of Springfield, Penn., was then arrested and taken to the Oxford County Jail. There he was given an intoxilizer test and held in lieu of bail.

Sunday, July 28

At 1:55 p.m. police observed a truck towing a homemade trailer loaded with wood, going up Main Street with two male subjects in the back, causing a safety concern. The officer followed the vehicle and noticed the registration plates on the trailer had expired in 1996. He stopped the truck, and learned the trailer belonged to one of the passengers in the back of the pickup. The subject admitted the trailer was his. He said he had just put the plates on so he could tow the trailer. Christopher Tyler, 31, of Bethel was issued a summons for illegally attached plates.

Tuesday, June 30

At 12:55 a.m. police stopped a vehicle on Route 2 for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone. The driver produced a Texas ID card and no license. He claimed to have an active Nevada license, but due to lack of information on the Nevada inquiry, he was released. It was later found his right to operate had been suspended. Police then tracked down the subject, Clayton W. Hoke, 21, of Sparks, Nev., at his condo and gave him a summons for operating without a license.

Wednesday, July 1

At 1:45 a.m. a subject was found in a vehicle in a turnout on the West Bethel Road. A check of the plates showed they belonged on another vehicle. The subject was found sleeping in the vehicle. On checking his Vermont license it was found he had an outstanding warrant for his arrest, and his license was suspended. Michael D. Palmer, 40, of Newport, Vt. was arrested and taken to the Oxford County Jail, where he was held in lieu of bail.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

I also hope that we will provide something of value to the whole community by capturing realistically the ideas, the opinions and the memories of many different Bethel voices."

The tentative schedule for the project has the group of about 10 students arriving in Bethel July 11; recruiting taking place July 12 at 5:30 p.m. at the Sunday River Inn; meetings, interviewing and rehearsals from July 13 through Aug. 1; production week rehearsals, etc., Aug. 2-5; and performances Aug. 6-8, possibly at Sudbury Canada Days and at local Granges.

Locally, Andrew Wheeler is working to find high school students interested in working on the project.

Students or anyone else interested in either the acting or production areas may call Wheeler at 875-2950.

Stephen, Becca, Heather and Charlie Hastings of North Yarmouth will be spending some time with his mother, Annie Hastings, while their new home in Norway is under construction.

Enoch, Annie Hastings' 18-year-old cat, who was "mayor" of Upper Main Street, walked on the crosswalk most always, and had discussions with friends in the area, died of old age last week.

Lindley and Pauline Wieden's residence was the scene of a Father's Day gathering. The Wiedens' son Stephen of Windham; daughter Cynthia and husband Richard Paine of Keene, N.H.; granddaughter Amy and husband Jeff Collins of Exeter, N.H.; grandson Jamison Paine of Dover, N.H.; daughter Sylvia and husband Don LaFlamme of Vienna; Mary and Bud Paine of Bethel were in attendance. A barbecue of chicken, hamburgers and hot dogs, with all the fixings, and squares and cake for dessert was enjoyed by all. The weather held off so rain gear was not necessary.

Merle and Emily Kimball and their nephew, Nathan, of Florida visited this past week with his daughter, Rebecca, and her husband, Tom Zicarelli and family.

Bob and Polly Davis spent the weekend in Northeast Harbor with Gould Academy classmates Mary Nutter and Ed Dorion of Portland and Bill and Pat Moore of Stowe, Vt., where they attended, on Sunday, the 50th wedding anniversary celebration for classmate Frederick (Bud) and Barbara Kneeland at Asticou Inn. Also attending from Bethel were Bill and Ki Clough, Scott and Jenna Smith and Peter Haines.

Mark and Lori Greenleaf, Rachel, Elizabeth and Alan of Foster, R.I., were in town visiting relatives for several days last week.

Lindley and Pauline Wieden celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary by spending the weekend of June 27 and 28 in the Camden and Belfast area. The rain stopped on Saturday leaving Sunday as a gorgeous day. The actual date of the anniversary was June 26.

Muriel Faudi is spending some time at Ledgewick Nursing Home.

Jen Shaw and friend, Kate Anderson of Falmouth, are spending 10 days visiting the Richard Packard family in Laguna Beach, Calif.

Barbara Herrick Brown has moved to an apartment at Market Square in South Paris.

The annual Quilt Show at Middle

Intervale Meeting House was a great success this year. It was very well attended, regardless of inclement weather. Leanne Prince, Pat Carter's daughter, received this year's quilt, a beautiful "rail fence."

A group of boys are playing soccer this summer under the leadership of Scott Swett. They practice Sundays and Wednesdays. There are 10 teams competing, with the first game at "Field of Dreams" in Harrison on July 5 at 5:30 p.m. Boys from this area are Jon Shaw, Chris Vaughan, Greg Koch, Jason Poirier, Ramsey Harrington, Bobby Bean, Will Seames, Jason Rosenberg, Matt Heibert, Steve Estes, Jeremy Curley, David Ojeda.

Sarah Keniston of Turner was overnight guest of her grandparents, Bob and Ginny Keniston, on Monday.

Pastor Rick's message for Father's Day was "The Heart of the Matter." He had some special words honoring fathers. Judy Webster was not there so for the hymns and choruses we had some recorded music, and for some Pastor Rick played his guitar and Peggy the flute. Singing was led by Shane Clark. In spite of the fact many regulars were absent we had a very good turnout.

One of the choruses contained these words: "Turn your eyes upon Jesus, Look full on His wonderful face. And things of this earth will grow strangely dim, In the light of His glory and grace."

Drew and Judy Webster and other family members were in Pennsylvania over the weekend to attend the funeral of Judy's brother-in-law.

Rose Dyer, a one-time resident of the Bethel House, visited Helena Bartlett on Sunday and they went out to lunch.

I have received a total of 12.7 inches of rain in my gauge as of June 20.

Tom Russell was a recent visitor of his mother, Irene Russell.

Vada Glover visited me on the 23rd. We went to see Amy at the Rumford Community Home, shopped at Ames and had a lovely lunch at Teena's. We also played cribbage and now at 764 games, Vada is two ahead.

"Count your garden by the flowers/Never by the leaves that fall/Count your days by golden hours/Don't remember clouds at all/Count your nights by stars not shadows/Count your life with smiles not tears/And all throughout your lifetime/Count your age by friends not years."

Young woman (thinking she had a record shop): "Do you have eyes of blue and love that's real?"

Man (wrong number): "I don't know but I have a wife and seven children."

Young woman: "Is that a record?"

Man: "I don't think so, but it is as close as we want to get."

Jean Palanza and Don Robinson of Coastal Management were at the Bethel House recently.

A Child's Version of Grandma

Many years ago a four-year-old girl, Sandra Louise Doty, described what she thought a grandmother was like. She said, "A grandmother is a lady, who has no children of her own, so she likes other people's little girls. A grandfather is a man grandmother. He goes for walks with the boys and they talk about fishing and tractors and things like that."

"Grandmothers do not have to do anything except be there. They're old so they shouldn't play or run hard. It is enough if they drive us to market where the pretend horse is, and have lots of dimes ready. Or if they take us for walks they should slow down past things like never leaves or caterpillars. They never ever should say, 'Hurry up.'"

Usually they are fat but not too fat to tie the kids' shoes. They wear glasses and funny underwear. They can take off their teeth and gums. They don't have to be smart, only answer questions like "Why do dogs hate cats?" and "How come God isn't married?" They don't talk baby talk like visitors do because it is so hard to understand. When they read to us they don't skip or mind if it is the same story over again." Then she finished.

"Everybody should try to have a grandmother especially if they don't have television, because grandmothers are the only grown-ups that have time."

I had a nice visit from Diana (Poland) Dunn, Joan Poland and Brandon Dunn last week. They came so I could see Brandon, who is five months old and a real cutie. He is the son of Diana and John Dunn and great-grandson of Joan.

Doug Wing is working at the Norway Laundry this summer, before going off to college in Massachusetts in the fall.

Terry and Phil Merrill have arrived in Mobile, Ala., where they traveled to see their first grandson, Logan. Logan is the son of Amy and Dan Bru of Mobile. They just couldn't get there fast enough.

Kellie Record and Jessie Hart brought us supper with all the fixings last Saturday night in observance of Father's Day. It was very much appreciated.

Rick and Sally Wing came over Sunday for a visit for Father's Day. It is always good to see the family.

Kellie Record has made and given a beautiful quilt to Sheila Verrill. I heard she was very pleased with it. It was made especially for Sheila.

Aarne Jarvenpaa is recuperating at Ledgerview Nursing Home for a while. He would enjoy cards and words of encouragement from anyone who knows him.

Jessie Hart came up for supper one night this week. I had taken her around looking for summer work during the day.

Happy birthday to those celebrating in July: Joe Pete Appleby, Stephanie Appleby, Sarah Jeanne Clements, Cylas Cash, Suzi Curry, Judy Green, Lee Herrick, Pat Hart, Wayne Lawrence, Bethany Lowe, Carolyn Lowe, Kalvin Mason, Rebecca Mason, Terry Merrill, Minna Morgan, Sheldon Morgan, Dylan and Derrick Poland (twins), Leon Poland, Peggy Roberts, Alex Ryerson, Vince Stevens, Darcy Tyler, Larry Wilday, Andrea Wing, and a special birthday wish to my husband, Richard.

Larry Billings, curator, Woodstock Historical Society, reports that Cecile and Maurice Lescault watched the museum recently. Criticism really is not constructive when society members volunteer their time and substance to benefit the community. Try a nice "Thank You" to show appreciation instead.

Curator Billings has made some storage space upstairs in the museum. This should give the society additional room for some time.

Curator Billings has given an orchid pin. They have also received a Norman Rockwell print of a man fishing.

Have a safe and happy Fourth of July and remember to display your flag.

East Stoneham

Hi readers. Happy birthday greetings go out to Al Yemma, who celebrated his 91st birthday on Wednesday, June 17, at the Norway Rehabilitation and Living Center. His family and friends were there and they enjoyed cake and ice cream and visiting. Eunice Grover was there and celebrated her 81st birthday also. Best wishes to you, too, Eunice.

Thursday, the East Stoneham Church supper went over well with a full house. Good people -- good food -- just the right amount of both. Many hands make less work. Three young ladies especially helped a lot in the kitchen and dining room. Thanks, girls. They said they would do it again.

On Friday, June 19th, we attended the Senior Citizens' picnic lunch at Fryeburg Fairgrounds. This was for any senior persons and was all free. We saw lots of people we knew and it was very good. This was the third and final picnic and program about crime prevention, etc. It was put on and organized by TRIAD, and many thanks go to the sheriff's department and Linda Hooker and all their helpers; also to Mead Company and Hannaford Bros. It was a well-organized and informational program. Music was furnished by Norm and Betty Decoteau.

Envelopes were distributed to the people with small items in them and one of the deputies read how mail and telephone calls can do fraud and scam advertising to the older people and for them to be on the alert and best not to get involved.

Debbie and Junior Jones' son, Joshua, has moved into his new home here in East Stoneham which he has built recently. He has done a good job and, Josh, you are to be congratulated. Happy living.

The next church suppers are at North Waterford on Tuesday, July 7, Albany on July 9 and East Stoneham on July 16. It's best to be there by 5 p.m.

Shirley Grant from Mechanic Falls was a weekend guest of Frances Grant.

One day last week I found the nicest place, which is on Tannery Street in Norway. Fare Share Co-op has all kinds of spices and herbs that you can imagine. They have so much more items. I was fascinated by it all and must go back again some day.

The Historical Society museum features Woodstock memorabilia, furniture, glass, china, art, tins, costumes, quilts, tools, jewelry, postcards and old photos among other things. Be sure to visit some Saturday afternoon this summer.

Society meetings are also held on the second Saturday of each month at 7 p.m. in the museum building. There is a research library to hunt things up in and a museum store with many products for sale. Guides give tours of the museum or you can look around by yourself, as things have labels on them.

Curator Larry Billings has given an orchid pin to the museum. Thanks to those who watch the museum, Cecile and Maurice Lescault watched the museum recently. Curator Billings has made some storage space upstairs in the museum to store some small items that give a feeling of clutter, including some of his own donations. This makes the museum neater. By doing this he can change displays occasionally if it seems appropriate. He has wanted to do this for some time because the best museums always include it in their plans.

Now we greet the longest days of the year. Each begins early with the stirring of birds as the first streaks of light come over the mountain, then disappear in a band of light along the western horizon. As a child a whippoorwill used to make his remarks of introduction to a long conversation with himself. Since I have lived here I have heard only one.

Each day the view from the hill is magnificent. Gentler hills and the broad valley, fields and woods, brooks and a river can be seen. There are a dozen shades of green against the blue and white sky.

Now the sun is growing smaller and hangs like a red moon over the pasture pines.

Look across fields and you will see how bushes are coming in along old walls. Notice the old apple trees scattered where they once stood in orderly rows.

At last the weather has made a feeble attempt at clearing. For short periods the rain blackened. Then the weeping skies wept again.

Bees drone in clover fields. A spider web is silver with diamonds, and maple leaves shiver in a breeze. The flowers say their own thanks.

This describes a scene of home, as the backdrop of a gigantic stage that fascinates me and challenges me and steadies me.

Bradley and Ann Payne invited several relatives and friends to their home on Saturday evening to celebrate the 56th wedding anniversary of Ann's parents, Leonas and Fay Holt, and Father's Day. Nine attended for supper and the evening. We enjoyed a lovely time.

The Innings have not yet returned home.

Bradley and Ann are at Moosehead for a few days. They left Sunday afternoon.

This is news. The sun shone today!

Leonas and Fay visited Carol Gardner Thursday.

I was on the porch overlooking the lake wondering what I should write about this week, since I'm heading out to the "flatlands" early on Saturday. No one has volunteered any good stories this early in the week, unless you count "How-much-rain stories."

I didn't have to wait very long. A territorial war took place before my eyes. I always wanted to be a war correspondent, and I got my wish. The battle was waged between two mother ducks. One flock consisted of 15 ducklings and the other with nine. It was survival of the fittest, with mother of 15 winning bills down. She assumed the attack position, head and wings in the assault mode, routing mother of nine and her brood in minutes.

Every day about 3 p.m. I hear the loons calling. We haven't spotted any babies yet, but Ginny Williamson has suspicions that there is an active nest in the vicinity. Avoiding and not disclosing the whereabouts of the nest is a priority with those who care about the loons. That looney loon on North Pond with the nest close to Route 26 finally got the message. The nest appears empty this year.

A large turtle has been sighted on and around the lake. We don't see turtles here very often. I can remember two in 30 years. Michelle and Cameron Bouchard found a large one on the path to the lake.

The bald eagle continues to circle over Peasly Cove every afternoon. She, or he, cruises over the periphery of the lake looking for a "take-out meal." The blackbirds are right on the job though and send her on her way.

The osprey at the New Hampshire line has a baby in the nest. Mom was seen working hard to feed it while Dad rested on the lower branch. This is the nineties and that's the way it's done now.

Sue and Larry Nelson spent a few days at Old Orchard. The weather was foggy and cool on the coast. Sweatshirts and jeans were worn instead of bathing suits.

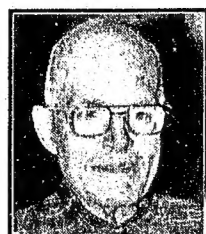

I had a call from my friend, Barbara Ruszczyk in Harswell. She said she hasn't seen the sun for weeks.

We, on the other hand, have had a faint glow of sun every few hours.

Many of the people in Upton have plans for family get-togethers on the Fourth of July. Our neighbor town, Errol, N.H., has quite a program planned for the Fourth. There will be a parade, fireworks, and a flea market tent sale. It's a great way to spend the holiday. If you decide to go, be sure to have an ice cream cone at Liz Glover's new Ice Cream Parlor and Restaurant.

Have a safe and happy Fourth of July, that is sunny and bright.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates
Howdy friends. As nearly all good things will eventually come to a close, I have decided that the Yates' tradition of writing for the Bethel Citizen will also come to a close with this column. My mother, Eva Yates, wrote for the Bethel Citizen way back when Carl Brown was the owner. Then my sister, Viva Whitman, wrote for the Citizen and I took over when she was no longer able to do so. I want to say "Thank you" to my faithful readers, over the years. Many have spoken of enjoying my columns, and others have written to me to let me know how much they enjoyed it, so I say, "Thank you one and all."

Although the water was high because of having so much rain, Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond held CWA Night Monday evening with a potluck supper preceding the meeting. We had a real good supper and those that came enjoyed it, but some didn't come because of the high water. Roads were closed in places, and some of the people had to take a long route around to get there. Sister Laura made it down from East Andover okay, but they also had closed roads and high water in some places.

Sister Peggy and I took our walk Tuesday morning, but we went armed with our umbrellas and I took along my potato digger and used it in places to clear the debris from the ditch that was left there by the Ice Storm of '98, as the ditch was blocked and the water was going around it and washing out some of the road.

Peggy took me downtown Tuesday afternoon, as I was scheduled to have an appointment with my doctor to check my progress during these Golden Years.

Lewis Bisbee, from Mechanic Falls, called on us Wednesday forenoon and brought two applications for membership of people wanting to join Oxford Grange, so that we could work the first and second degrees on them at West Paris Grange the following evening. He would have liked to be at West Paris Grange when the degrees were worked, but as Maine State Grange Deputy, he was scheduled to be at Mount Sugarloaf Grange in Dixfield.

Thursday evening found us at West Paris Grange to help work the first and second degrees on what we hoped was going to be five candidates, but only two came, but we worked the degrees just the same. I took a nerve pill before leaving home, as I was to take the office of master, while Peggy was to be assistant steward. There was no way that we could get together for any rehearsals, but all went quite well and those two candidates are now ready to take the third and fourth degrees, which will be worked on July 9.

We were downtown on Friday morning to do our grocery shopping and to take care of other errands. We went to Shop 'n Save first, since we were early, then had to go to Fare Share as well as the Irving Store in South Paris. When we got back home, Peggy's daughter, Myrna and husband, Whitey, were here so that he could mow the lawns. The grass was still wet, but he decided that he'd better mow the lawns while the sun was shining, and it was good that he did, as we had more showers in the afternoon.

I did some mowing Saturday forenoon, but a hard thunder-shower came to be and I didn't get as much mowed as I had hoped to do. There was no rain here, but it was a hard shower just the same. We had thundershowers with rain in the p.m.

We attended a three-point Grange meeting and supper at Rumford Grange Saturday evening. Rumford Grange was host, Alder River Grange, from East Bethel, filled the offices, and West Paris Grange furnished the program. We had quite a good attendance and all enjoyed a nice supper and meeting.

Peggy and I were working in the garden early Sunday morning. We removed the covers from our tomato plants and got the cages around them.

Sunday afternoon we went down to the Veterans' Home to listen to the music by the Richard Felt Band members. Some of them couldn't be there, but the music went on just the same and many patients were there to enjoy it.

Mary Lovejoy and her daughter, Faith, were in Waterville on Saturday for Faith's orientation. She will be entering Thomas College this fall.

Grant and Grace LaRose were callers at the Lovejoy home recently.

This week I will be kind and get my column in early so poor Polly doesn't have to deal with it at the last minute. That is not really my style, but lately, I have been a real procrastinator. Add to that a confusion between Monday and Tuesday because my classes are usually on Monday and Wednesday and this summer they are Tuesday and Thursday. But now it is Monday, and I may actually be caught up.

On my walk this morning, I really missed the Rude dog. She and I would walk, (or I would ride and she would run), every morning, rain or shine, heat or snow. Tasha is not easy to walk with, because she has to be on a leash and she likes to run faster than I can walk. Now I'm resigned to solitary walks. I get to walk at my own speed and to smell the flowers, etc. This morning I saw daisies, pinks, yellow hawkweed, Indian paintbrush, yarrow, an unknown pink flower that looked like a round button and roses. The roses were in gardens and at the cemetery. They were all beautiful.

I also saw, much to my dismay, that the cedar tree in the Foster yard is completely down. I don't know whether it was the ice storm, lightning, or just rot, but, although it still seems alive, it is on its side. It is a shame, because whenever I saw it I thought of the biblical passage that goes something like, "grow mighty like the Cedar trees in Lebanon." So much for my biblical knowledge, but I've always had a special feeling for cedar trees, and it is used in Native American ceremonies.

Yesterday being a sunny day, I finally planted the last of my plants and got around to weeding the garden. At least, I weeded most of the garden. I hoed and pulled and hauled away many a weed from around the plants. The carrots are small, the squashes are few and nowhere near flower stage and the peas, well the peas are... some plants are in flower, but most are not, and I don't think I'll have peas by the Fourth of July. So much for that old adage, plant peas by Memorial Day and eat them by the Fourth of July. Even with Memorial Day being so early this year, it doesn't look like I'll have peas.

Yesterday, I also took a bike ride down the valley. I really wished that I had that special seat for women that neighbor Nancy and I saw in the Tide Nine catalog. I have a somewhat soft seat, but not as soft as I wanted. I know that I'll get used to it if I ride enough, but - both riding and walking, I'm appalled by the amount of trash. Most of it is beer bottles and cans. The drinkers must be getting richer, because it isn't all Budweiser any more. There are others and there are bottles. That means that there is also broken glass. I wish that people would just bring their litter home with them. I'm sure that they wouldn't like it if I dumped it in their back yard, so why dump it in someone else's?

properties, I share the concerns of Christine Lumpkins, analyst for Bear, Stearns and Co. Ms. Lumpkins is concerned that they may be trying to do too much at once, especially by branching out to becoming a real estate developer, an area where she doesn't "feel that they have a lot of expertise." We await the outcome of the growth.

"Speaking of growth, when are we ever going to get the promised bike lanes? It was a year and a half ago that we voted at Town Meeting to have bike lanes, and I see no signs of them. I'm not really even sure where they'll go. There isn't much room for them on the side of the road. Perhaps Steve knows something that I don't know, but the road is fairly narrow, as it is, when there are two vehicles on it. I almost got run off the run by a green truck going up to Jordan Bowl, and I was walking. Had I been on a bike, he probably would have just mowed me down.

This month's poetry reading went quite well. We had three new people there -- one from Norway, and two women new to Bethel. They had only been here a week. I also got a phone call from an old member who hadn't been around for awhile. It is great to see us growing and thriving. We will be giving a reading at Deertrees Theatre in July. I will write more about that another time.

"They are predicting another rainstorm, so I had better get the laundry done now and hope it dries this week.

Have a good week, everyone, and try to stay dry. How does that go, walk softly between the raindrops? May the sun shine on all of you and may your gardens grow. Hope many have peas as they enjoy the Fourth.

Mahoosuc Arts Council

Nine programs for community audiences, 17 assemblies in the SAD44 schools, administration of an elementary visual arts in education program, a summer Gazebo series, collaborative efforts in support of the Bethel Choral Society, the Casablanca Independent Film Series, Mollycoddett Day, the Gould Performing Arts series, the Bethel Art Fair, the Bethel Historical Society's Fourth of July celebration and New Years Bethel planning -- the 300-plus membership of the Mahoosuc Arts Council has reason for pride. That was the message expressed by the Mahoosuc Board of Directors as they reviewed the season for the membership in attendance at the June Annual Meeting.

Recognizing the leadership of Executive Director Vicki Rackliffe, and acknowledging the generous support of the individual members and business sponsors, Board chair Marguerite Graham, shared confidence in the proposed 1998-99 budget as Ms. Rackliffe leads the council to new frontiers.

Graham also expressed her gratitude to the Board of Directors and recognized those volunteers who will be moving on to other ventures. Although Jean Bass, Terry Elsmore, Arla Patch and Mary Dunton will no longer serve as directors, they all expressed a commitment to membership and support as Mahoosuc Arts continues its mission to bring programs in the arts and humanities to the schools and communities of SAD44.

Vicki Rackliffe recognized the years of volunteer support the council has received from the offices of Jane Gray and Dan Reich and countless community members. She shared her vision for future programming and fundraising activities. The 1997-98 season will officially conclude with another Gazebo series featuring five Sunday afternoon concerts on the common this summer.

West Paris Library

The West Paris Library is collecting books for their Aug. 15 sale. Persons wishing to donate books for the sale can drop them off at the library on any Monday, Wednesday or Friday between 1:30 and 5 p.m. The sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. A food sale will be held in conjunction with the sale of books. All donations of books will be gladly accepted. Some books may be retained for the library collection.

The library currently has a small collection of large-print books on loan from the Maine State Library. These books will be available through July for the use of library patrons and will supplement the library's own collection of large-print material.

The library trustees recently approved a three-week borrowing window in place of the two-week schedule currently in place. This new policy became effective on Monday, June 15.

From the

Ellis River Riders

The Ellis River Riders will sponsor their July open horse show on Sunday, July 5, starting at 9 a.m. English and Western Equitation and Pleasure classes will take place in the morning, with Gymkhana events running in the afternoon. The show will take place at the show grounds off the Airport Road in Andover. Spectators are welcome to attend free of charge at any time during the day. New amenities for spectators include picnic tables shaded by a pavilion and a small playground area for the little tots.

From the

Bethel Area C. of C.

We need someone to pick up a canoe at L.L. Bean in Freeport and bring it back to Bethel. It is the grand prize in the Duck Race on July 18 -- Mollycodd Day. Can anyone do this?

Saturday is the ninth annual Bethel Art Fair and Fourth of July Celebration with fireworks at 9 p.m. We still need volunteers to help -- you receive three raffle tickets for your efforts. Events of the day run from 9 a.m. until into dark, with art, fine crafts, music, food, and games included. (See the schedule in this paper for details.) Broad Street will be closed off from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. from the Bethel Inn Conference Center to Mason Street so that people can better enjoy the fair and the Bethel Historical Society's annual Fourth of July Picnic.

We'd like to thank all our sponsors, but especially our major sponsor, Northeast Bank, and our "Big Bang" sponsors, Bethel Family Health Center, Bethel Inn & Country Club, Coca Cola, Portland Natural Gas Transmission System, and Sunday River Ski Resort. There will be 33 artists and artisans showing their work on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., including locals Reggie Brown, Walter Clark, Bob Keniston, Helen A. Morton, and Sue L. Wight. We hope to see everyone on the common.

The ninth annual Textron Financial Corp. and Merrill Corp. Bethel Area Chamber Golf Classic is full on July 13. It should be a great event, thanks to the two major sponsors, Merrill Corporation and Textron Financial for making it happen. Speaking of "making it happen," many thanks to Golf Committee co-chairs Bill Brown and Eileen Schneider and their dedicated committee members, Art Marshall, Allen Connors, Jason Hurd, Cynthia and Bob Laux, Punky Davis, George Driscoll, and Barry Estes.

The Key Bank Mollycodd Day Road Race applications are mailed and T-shirts are still available to entrants. If you didn't get one, stop by the office to enter the Saturday, July 18, five-mile or one-mile race. The chamber volunteers -- and we need more volunteers -- will be selling duck race tickets, lobster rolls, and T-shirts on the common. (Free magnificent T-shirt, designed by Ken Irons, goes to all volunteers.)

This week at the

Moses Mason House

The Bethel Historical Society's annual picnic will be held this year at the McLaughlin Foundation Garden and Horticultural Center in South Paris on this Thursday (July 2). Members and friends of the society should assemble for carpooling at the Dr. Moses Mason House for departure at 5 p.m. in order to arrive at the garden center by 5:30 p.m. when the picnic will begin. Those attending should bring a picnic lunch. Lemonade will be served by the society. Following the picnic, there will be guided tours and a presentation on the center.

Fundraising for the annual Bethel Historical Society community picnic and brass band concert on the Fourth of July (Saturday) continues to attract those willing to support the appearance of the Portland Brass Quintet. Among the most recent contributors are the Mahosuc Arts Council, Bethel and Eric and Lucia Schwarz, Bethel. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity in making this event possible. Contributions in any amount are still needed and may be sent to the society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012.

A major traveling exhibit from the Maine Historical Society, titled, "The Way Life Should Be: Tourism, Romance, and Reality in Early Modern Maine" opened in the meeting room of the Bethel Historical Society's Dr. Moses Mason House on Friday, June 26. Funded by a major grant from the Maine Humanities Council, the exhibit highlights some of the technological and social changes that occurred in Maine between 1900 and the 1920s. The nostalgia for what many saw as a "lost world" grew with the interest taken in what became known as the Colonial Revival, which helped stimulate interest in tourist attractions.

The Dr. Moses Mason House is open for its 25th season this year. Guided tours will be offered each afternoon (1 to 4 p.m.) except Monday and continue until Labor Day. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children ages 6 to 11, families $5. The exhibit, "The Way Life Should Be" will be here until November and is free.

The society's Capital Campaign Committee sponsored a luncheon during the quilt show on June 26 and 27, which was a success. Many thanks to all who helped with this event.

An orientation session for new guides for the Dr. Moses Mason House was held on June 30 with several volunteers present. Anyone wishing to join the roster of those willing to provide guided tours of the Dr. Mason House are urged to all 824-2908.
